

A glimpse of God

Kathryn Fleming reflects on Job 42:1-6. 10-end and Mark 10:46-end

As Jesus meets blind Bartimaeus, his opening question might seem entirely unnecessary.

“What do you want me to do for you?” he asks. The petitioner is blind. Of course, his prime need would be to have his sight restored. Surely it’s a no-brainer. But actually what he has asked for is mercy. There’s something deeper happening here, just as there is when Job realises that his search for answers will lead him only further into mystery. Though there are many and obvious physical issues to be addressed, the fundamental need for both Job and Bartimaeus is to recognise that God is God, and that in God’s presence we are all alike in need of mercy, dwarfed by “things too wonderful for me, which I did not know”.

Perhaps this might help us to hold on to our faith in hard times (even if those times are, please God, less cataclysmic than those endured by Job). Sometimes healing has more to do with experiencing God’s mercy and recognising God’s greatness, than with sorting out a physical issue. That may not always feel like good news but, as Job reminds us, God’s picture is always bigger, and we glimpse but a corner. Sometimes, wonderfully, like Bartimaeus we receive both healing and cure. But when that is not our experience let’s try cling to God as Job did, and hope to glimpse God’s loving purpose. ☺

The joy of the Prayer Book

part IV

by the Revd Dr Daniel Newman

Daniel Newman concludes his series with a meditation on the language of the Prayer Book.

A further joy of the Prayer Book is the language in which this theology comes. Features of Cranmer’s masterful prose include alliteration and doubling (e.g. “devices and desires”), repetition of pronouns (“We have erred... We have followed... We have offended... We have left undone... We have done”) and conjunctions (“We have done this and we have done that and this is what we are like”), and its rhythm. Although traditional language is equated with formality, it offers the potential for intimacy which modern language denies us: we can address God as “Thou” which is an intimate form of address, like the French “tu”.

When I sit in Evensong, stand at the Lord’s table, or kneel at my prayer desk, as I smell the scents that come wafting on the clean sea breeze of the centuries, the Prayer Book woos me afresh for God.

Lord, you know our needs better than we do ourselves. Help us to trust you, so that our faith in you may heal us of our fears and bring us to worship at the feet of your Son, Jesus our Lord. Amen.

Walking with Poppy getting lost

by Gillian Cooper

Living in London has given Poppy and me a chance to explore. Today we head for Clapham and walk on the common. We wander around, taking small paths, shuffling through the leaves and following squirrels until I have completely lost my sense of direction. We seem lost, but we are not. We simply head towards the nearest buildings, and there on the street is a helpful Transport for London map telling us just where we are, so back to the tube station we go, and home for tea.

God is even more helpful than Transport for London. God has given us signposts and maps, stories, traditions and people, to help us navigate the complicated route through our lives. But even if we seem lost, God is always with us, like the shepherd who goes looking for the one stray sheep and will not rest until all are safely home. ☺

Bible Readings

Hebrew Scripture

Isaiah 28. 14-16

Therefore hear the word of the Lord, you scoffers who rule this people in Jerusalem.
Because you have said, 'We have made a covenant
with death,
and with Sheol we have an agreement;
when the overwhelming scourge passes through
it will not come to us;
for we have made lies our refuge,
and in falsehood we have taken shelter';
therefore thus says the Lord God,
See, I am laying in Zion a foundation stone,
a tested stone,
a precious cornerstone, a sure foundation:
'One who trusts will not panic.'

Blessed Thought

To him who is able to keep you from falling and to present you before his glorious presence without fault and with great joy - to the only God our Saviour be glory, majesty, power and authority, through Jesus Christ our Lord, before all ages, now and for evermore! Amen.
(Jude 24;25)

Gospel Reading

John 15. 17-end

I am giving you these commands so that you may love one another.

The World's Hatred

'If the world hates you, be aware that it hated me before it hated you. If you belonged to the world, the world would love you as its own. Because you do not belong to the world, but I have chosen you out of the world—therefore the world hates you.

Remember the word that I said to you, "Servants are not greater than their master." If they persecuted me, they will persecute you; if they kept my word, they will keep yours also. But they will do all these things to you on account of my name, because they do not know him who sent me. If I had not come and spoken to them, they would not have sin; but now they have no excuse for their sin. Whoever hates me hates my Father also. If I had not done among them the works that no one else did, they would not have sin. But now they have seen and hated both me and my Father. It was to fulfil the word that is written in their law, "They hated me without a cause."

'When the Advocate comes, whom I will send to you from the Father, the Spirit of truth who comes from the Father, he will testify on my behalf. You also are to testify because you have been with me from the beginning.'

Christian Scripture

Ephesians 2. 19-end

So then you are no longer strangers and aliens, but you are citizens with the saints and also members of the household of God, built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, with Christ Jesus himself as the cornerstone.

In him the whole structure is joined together and grows into a holy temple in the Lord; in whom you also are built together spiritually into a dwelling-place for God.

Psalm

Psalm 119. 89-96

The Lord exists for ever;
your word is firmly fixed in heaven.
Your faithfulness endures to all generations;
you have established the earth, and it stands fast.
By your appointment they stand today,
for all things are your servants.
If your law had not been my delight,
I would have perished in my misery.
I will never forget your precepts,
for by them you have given me life.
I am yours; save me,
for I have sought your precepts.
The wicked lie in wait to destroy me,
but I consider your decrees.
I have seen a limit to all perfection,
but your commandment is exceedingly broad.

Prayer

Prayer and Healing Ministry

As a Church Family, God calls us to “pray without ceasing” for one another and for our neighbourhood. With this in mind, a Calendar of Prayer covering the whole of The Parish Of Three Saints has been drawn up. Each Sunday we will be highlighting a particular road or street, plus an organisation or group of people in our Parish or Diocese and encouraging you to pray for them during the week. The Calendar of Prayer will also be available in the prayer corners of each of our church buildings.

This week please pray for...

- Those living in Rectory Way, Lympsham and Laurel Avenue, Brent Knoll.
- White House Kennels, Delhorn Boarding Kennels and Cattery, Brent Knoll Cattery.
